LESSONS FOR LIFE TO BENEFIT THE CENTER OF HOPE

November 8, 2014 - Sarasota, Florida

This November an annual tradition continued. 25 of the area's best tennis pros donated their time and talents to conduct group clinics for 150 participants at the 14th Annual Lessons for Life presented by the United States Professional Tennis Association (USPTA) benefitting the Center for Building Hope.

Donations included a group clinic, silent auction, dinner, cold beverages and good company. Loriet Sports participated in the event's silent auction, donating 2 of its best selling tennis outfits for women and men, and by volunteering to conduct on-court clinics.

The Center for Building Hope offers free information, programs and services to cancer patients, caregivers and family members, while connecting them with others who are undergoing a similar experience. The Center for Building Hope's state of the art facility in Lakewood Ranch, Sarasota is inviting, vibrant and offers a variety of programs and supportive groups.
