

Home | Search | Contact Us

August 20, 2007

FEATURES

Headlines

Message Boards

Story Archive

MEMBERSHIP

Sign Up / Login

LINKS

TENNIS HALL OF FAME

2007 Tournament Draws

Tennis Week Store

TW Favorite Links

Subscribe

Steve Flink.com

TABC Fundraiser Is A Hit

McEnroe & junior players

By Tennis Week
11/02/2005

U.S. Davis Cup captain Patrick McEnroe may have looked like he was in the midst of a soap opera on Sunday. Actually, the New York native was joined by All My Children soap stars Leven Rambin and Colin Egglesfield, former Princeton player and author David Eaton, several local pros and donated items from Andre Agassi and Martina Navratilova at the 13th annual Tennis Against Breast Cancer Pro-Am at the Roosevelt Island Racquet Club on Sunday.

Organized by Maureen Rankine, the Pro-Am was preceded by a Saturday night TABC/Loriet Fashion Show at the Hardrock Cafe at Times Square. The show — and Loriet's new line of tennis clothes — was a hit with the crowd and it launched the TABC weekend.

Top Eastern junior players Francine Whu, Manuela Velasquez, Malika Rose, Carlissa King, Laken King and Skylar Kono participated in the Pro-Am. A total of nearly $9,000 was raised from the Pro Am and Silent Auction, with such items as a racquet signed by Andre Agassi and a hat signed by Martina Navratilova. For more information, please visit TABC.org.

SUPPORT OUR SPONSORS

